

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems for busses achieve improved air distribution at the front of the bus through a distribution system integrated with the dashboard and outlet vents shaped and oriented to provide clearing of mist and frost from vehicle windows, particularly those in and around an entry to the vehicle. A dedicated blower for an entry way door is provided.